

An easy wiretapping system would make it far too easy for enterprising hackers to discover such a protocol and tap others, and possibly use such information to further identity theft.